

Hi Frederic and team,

Many years ago I designed a site on NationBuilder for a campaign to free Leopoldo López from prison in Venezuela. Civic Roundtable feels like a natural next step: equipping the people inside government with the tools to actually work together and solve problems.

I'd love to be part of this.

I'm self-driven and resourceful, having built and sold Faucet Face, a reusable water bottle company aimed at curbing bottled water use. I've built products like Color Supply that regularly go viral on Twitter, worked on rebrands for major companies like Wilson, and I'm experienced in motion design.

You can see more of my work here. Hope we can connect soon to discuss the opportunity.

Best,

Mason